What was Good?

- (James) I was able to accomplish the assignments I needed to
- (Jacob) The sprint was a bit longer than the last
- (Naeun) Frequent meetings and working times with other team members.
- (Isabel) Frequent communication one-on-one and with the team
- (Blake) Able to finish everything assigned to me.
- Because we've been working so hard on this project, it was refreshing to have a low workload for this sprint. This allowed us to get our work for other classes done and also helped reduce feelings of burnout.

What was Bad?

- Time management was poor, the group did not keep each other accountable for putting in work hours.
- Poor communication surrounding the process of asking other group members questions, instead of meeting we were just answering questions on discord and this was ineffective.
- We were working on lots of things we don't actually have to finish by the end of the milestone.
- Sense of direction was overall poor.

What needs to Change?

- Communication:
  - We were unable to get a lot of work done surrounding confusion or a lack of understanding of what was required of each person and how to complete the tasks people were assigned
  - Ev To avoid this in the future it is essential that

- LA. TO avoid this in the future it is essential that EVERY team member is present for sprint planning, even if that means moving sprint planning to the following day or having it a day early
- Ex. If team members have multiple questions and this is stopping them from continuing/completing their task, meeting over zoom is ESSENTIAL vs trying to understand their problem and answering their questions over discord messages back and forth
